Pre-School Age Census Shows No Big Increase In Future Enrollment

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME IN EFFECT SUNDAY

Daylight saving time will go into effect next Sunday morning much to the pleasure of those who like it and the annoyance of those who don't. The usual procedure for the public to make the changeover from standard time is to set clocks and watches one hour ahead before going to bed Saturday night and then forget about it.

Census of Andover's pre-school age children indicates no great jump in future school enrollment.

The number of new children expected to enter the town's school population next September should be about 250, or just about the same as last year.

The year following it should be somewhat over that figure and then start falling off slightly until 1957.

These conclusions are based upon the census of children from birth to age 7 taken for the school department by the assistant assessors last January.

The figures show that the number eligible to enter the kindergarten and grade 1 next fall to be 239; in 1954 it will be 245; in 1955 - 219; in 1956 - 230; and in 1957 - 210.

These figures do not take into consideration the number of children of school age in new families that will move into Andover during these years.

In the past five years about 600 new families have come to Andover with about 900 children of school age, an average of one-and-a-half per family.

The continued increase in the number of new families moving into town is expected to swell the school enrollment in about the

TEWKSBURY 7, PUNCHARD 5

Punchard opened its baseball season at Tewksbury last Monday afternoon by dropping a 7 to 5 decision to the host team on a cold, wind-swept diamond.

Although Jack Watson held the Tewksbury batters to three hits his nine bases on balls combined with nine stolen bases and six Punchard errors were too much for the Blue Devils to overcome.

Tewksbury really won the game in the second by chasing five runs across and added one each in the third and fourth and one each in the fifth and sixth, but could not tally again.

The score:

Greater Curb Needed

Although the nation's wars have accounted for close to 1,010,000 military deaths since the Battle of Lexington 178 years ago, the automobile continues to hold first place as America's most relentless mass killer.

Since the first automobile fatality in New York about 54 years ago the aggregate of deaths in all highway accidents has climbed to 1,050,000, or about 40,000 more than the number of fighting men killed, according to a study of war and highway casualties made by the Association of Casualty and Surety companies.

These figures bring into sharp perspective the needless traffic toll that has been surging ahead of the nation's military losses at a terrific rate.

Only when an aroused public becomes deeply concerned with the threat of highway accidents to personal safety will better progress be made in curbing the great number of accidents on our highways.

Grass Roots Sentiment

The American Press magazine recently polled a representative group of country editors on the subject of what the current congress should do. Almost 500 of these editors responded — and the general tenor of their opinion, the magazine reports, is "that congress should get rid of laws rather than make new ones; that government should interfere as little as possible with the freedom of the people; and that government should not enter into competition with private business...."

Specific proposals on which the editors recommended a "No" vote included new government power projects, government-backed rural telephone service, federal health insurance, increased social security benefits, and government-sponsored public housing.

In other words, these grass roots editors want less government domination of our lives, not more — and cheaper government instead of more expensive government. It's a good bet that the majority of the American people feel exactly the same way.

Complain About Trash On Highways

Police have issued a warning against throwing rubbish on highways after receiving complaints that papers and other trash have been dumped on Chandler road and Beacon street.

Much of this has been done, they believe, by persons on the way to the public dump who throw the trash from their cars without bothering to go all the way to the dump.

A fine of $50 will be imposed on persons found guilty of throwing litter on the highways.

Police also remind truck drivers that trucks carrying rubbish to the dump must be covered to prevent it from blowing off.

PRE-SCHOOL CENSUS SHOWS NO BIG INCREASE

It was the unexpected increase in the school enrollment last September that caused the school department to ask for the school census by the assistant assessors.

As Supt. Kenneth L. Sherman stated in his annual report, "The enrollment continues to increase at a rate that makes planning difficult. The enrollment during the past few years has increased far beyond the forecast of our professional survey (made by Jesse B. Davis and Cyril G. Sargent made in a study of school building needs in 1949).

"We opened schools in the fall of 1952 with 246 additional pupils instead of 100 additional pupils. If our ratio in the elementary school is approximately 30 pupils to the teacher, it is easy to understand that every 30 additional pupils means an additional teacher and an additional cost to the taxpayer."

For last September the total enrollment was 2056 while the professional survey predicted only 1757. For next September Supt. Sherman estimates an enrollment of 2300 which is far beyond the forecast made back in 1949.

At the last town meeting the moderator was authorized to appoint a school housing planning committee to investigate school housing conditions and formulate long-range school building plans.

These figures secured by the assistant assessors should be of great value to the committee in making its study.

The figures broken down by precinct for the next several years are presented by The Townsman today in another column.

ties of summer-blooming pansies. There will be garden and flower accessories as well. The pantry booth, furnished by the day scholars and resident faculty members of Andover, promises its usual display of delicacies, and in greater abundance than usual.

The tea room, located in the school dining room, will operate under the direction of Miss Hope Coolidge and Miss Elaine Dodge assisted by a group of student waitresses. The Abbot kitchen under the supervision of Mr. Jes Bonde will produce the refreshments and offer some specialties to the customers to take home with them.

Another feature of the bazaar will be added entertainment for the children, and a group of students who will be in charge of games and competitions for the youngsters. There will be the usual booths showing gifts, books, handicrafts, the white elephant and the wishing well, and many games and competitive amusements for the boys and girls. The pet show will be of even wider scope than formerly, and the auctions at the close of the afternoon will offer some very useful and desirable items.

Admission tickets at the gate will entitle the holder to witness the feature entertainment to be presented in the gymnasium. Entrance tickets are 25 cents, and 10 cents for children under 12 years.

The bazaar is the special project of the senior middle class at Abbot, and the proceeds go, as is customary, to school philanthropies including the World Student Service fund which provides aid to ill or needy students, and to national and local organizations as well. Chairman of the bazaar committee is Miss Dorothy Judd of the Abbot faculty, supported by Louise-Marie de Cholnoky, president of the senior middle class. Both chairmen are assisted by faculty and student committees who plan to produce a very attractive bazaar.

What are 100 Steps worth?

If you were to put a money value — say 1/100th of a cent — on every step the telephone saves you, would your pantry sugar bowl be big enough to hold your profits?

Think what your telephone visits to friends, telephone orders to the grocer and druggist, telephone calls in emergencies actually save you in steps, in car trips and gasoline, in time and trouble!

Yet — with all its convenience and its steadily increasing usefulness, the telephone is one of the biggest bargains in your budget. The price of an average local call, including tax, is just a few pennies.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile collected 317 pints of blood during the two-day visit here Monday and Tuesday. Sidney P. White, chairman of the blood program, wishes to thank all donors as well as all the volunteer workers who made the Bloodmobile visit here a success.

The local Red Cross chapter announces that it has met its quota in the recent drive for money, thanks to the generous response of local citizens.

David M. Thompson, chairman of the fund drive, reports that the goal of $12,000 has been reached, which means that the local chapter can continue its services to the community.

played outstanding airman and flying skill. In the vicinity of Suwon, Korea, a large enemy convoy was sighted leaving a supply area. Numerous bombing attacks were made which caused seven secondary explosions and four sustained fires. Capt. Wilson then initiated a series of low level strafing passes causing additional fires and explosions. These explosions destroyed the supply area. These attacks were pressed over hazardous mountain terrain despite intense fire from enemy automatic weapons and were continued until all ordnance was expended. As a result of this highly successful mission, vital enemy supplies and transportation facilities were destroyed. By his high personal courage and devotion to duty, Capt. Wilson brought great credit upon himself and the U.S.A.F.
